INSPIRATIONS

Don't think the garden
loses its ecstasy
in winter.
Its quiet,
but the roots
are down there
riotous.

and Me

Eloquent Rage

they are acrobats
in the freezing wind.
And now, in the theater of air,
they swing over buildings,
dipping and rising;
they float like one stippled star
that opens,
becomes for a moment fragmented,
then closes again;
and you watch
and you try
but you simply can't imagine how they do it
with no articulated instruction, no pause, only the silent confirmation that they are this notable thing, this wheel of many parts, that can rise and spin over and over again,
full of gorgeous life.
Ah, world, what lessons you prepare for us, even in the leafless winter, even in the ashy city.
I am thinking now
of grief, and of getting past it; I feel my boots
trying to leave the ground, I feel my heart pumping hard. I want to think again of dangerous and noble things.
I want to be light and frolicsome.
I want to be improbable beautiful and afraid of nothing, as though I had wings.

Reflections from Jonathan -

I remain in gratitude at the end of this Thanksgiving.

I choose to give thanks for the many spiritual teachers and teachings that continue to guide my path. Part of my life ecstasy is the embrace of teachings from different spiritual traditions.

Michael Jerome Hanson (member of our community) has been an incredible resource in suggesting teachers along the way. He recently suggested the work of Dr Joe Dispenza. I remembered this name from the movie "What the Bleep Do We Know." This movie (2004) explained the link between thought, emotion and neurology. It explored the physical Universe, human life within it, and quantum physics. It posited that the physical Universe is rooted in the quantum realm, that our earthly experience is actually energy based rather than matter based. That "empty space" is not empty.

Since 2004 Joe Dispenza has deepened his exploration of reality and now offers science based technology and practices that assist humans and their evolution. After Michael 's suggestion I did at least 23 hours of study over a 10 day period. I have added Joe's meditations into my daily practice and have been blown away by the results. I encourage all of you to check his work out (his website is listed in the recommendation section of this newsletter).

May you all be blessed as we enter this holy-day season. May you feel the joy of presents (presence).

Jonathan
